It is a guide to the understanding and practice of Universal Law
Let me share a little information with you. The future that awaits humanity in a relatively short period of time is so beautiful and rewarding that it should be shared far and near to all who will listen.

The following text offers salvation to every man, woman and child on the Planet, the good, the not so good, and the different.

There has only ever been one way to enter creation, and that route is to be part of the plan of creation. There is no way to exist in the physical realm other than being part of the plan of creation. No being has ever entered creation with a plan other than, wanting to grow Spiritually, to want to make the World a better place for all of the inhabitants of the Planet. We all arrive with potential, free will and a plan. When we leave the physical realm, as we all must one day, and return to the realms of light where we came from, and our return is assured, for all of us, we can find out how we got on. For the vast majority of people who come here, the experience is a truly rewarding one. Our Earthly life might have been unbelievably hard and we may have lived in very turbulent times, but the ability to "make the best of what you have" will see us all through. This Earthly life, even for a relatively long one of say 100 years, is as a blink of an eye to our immortal self. Lets make the best of it.

Introduction.

The Good

That is all of the people who make mistakes, but who try to get through life learning from their mistakes, for those who tried to live a caring selfless life, those who try to be happy with what they need, who tried their best and may have often failed but kept on trying, for all of the nice people who wouldn't mind lending you a helping hand, the future is indeed rosy. Once this mortal life is over and we have completed our plan, we walk into a millionaire lifestyle. We don't need to work again to have all of the things that we want, as they are all there for us, we have earned them. We can take time to relax with our friends and family for as long as we want to, in absolute safety, comfort, peace and freedom, until such time as we feel we want to progress further. For your average nice person the Spiritual realm is full of light and beauty, where there is no disease or decay, where there are no negative entities, for instance people who may have hurt you in this life and you think may want to do the same again, it cannot happen, all negative entities are in a different area, on a lower level, and the lower can not mix with the higher. Life is good and you can learn about anything you want to completely free of any charge at the Universities and colleges, in the company of nice people like yourself. There are parks and lakes with beautiful flowers and trees and it is always Summer time.

The not so good

Oh dear, what have I done, or words to this effect will ring through your thoughts as loud as loud can be. What happened to the plan? You will remember all of the objectives that you help put together and agreed to, so as to help you develop Spiritually. In the light of truth where there is nowhere to hide, all is revealed. The shame, the horror, of all the selfish greedy acts will echo around and around for all to see. All of the missed opportunities for service used for self. When we go back to the Spiritual realms, we reside with people like our selves, so if we led a greedy selfish life, we will be with greedy selfish people. The atmosphere will be not so bright with little or no flowers or trees for the selfish and greedy, but they will be aware of some form of light from above, but they will be aware that they are below in a darker area and that there are others below them.

The different

Below the normal crooks and cheats are the darker entities. Those who have knowingly robbed and killed and unjustly imprisoned and caused war and bloodshed for their own profit. Those who have helped to enslave human beings to bondage of one kind or another to grow rich and powerful in the material World. Those who have killed and deceived to protect their hold over others. Those who have cruelly abused the weak and frail for their own ends. When it comes to be the time of their passing over, do they seriously think that they can say sorry, and that all will be made well, weather it was meant sincerely or not? What a travesty of justice that would be if a deathbed apology could excuse you for a life of savage cruelty. I can tell you now that it does not happen.

There has never been such a thing as a deathbed pardon. Nothing material can be taken to the Spiritual realm, no money or Earthly power, no high ranking position or privilege, the only thing that you can take with you (and nobody can ever take it away from you) is the amount of love you were able to give by way of service, and of course, the record of how you got on with the plan. There is no excuse for cruel behaviour; none at all, we all have a conscience that tells us when we are at odds with our life plan. It is our own free will that allows us to ignore and over-ride it. If we don't learn from our mistakes and continue to ignore our consciences then our Spiritual World will be dark and dank, full of dark and dank entities like ourselves, what a life. The terrible shame is that all of the people, and there has never been an exception, came here with the same plan as everyone else, to improve themselves Spiritually and to make the World a better place, but how they succumbed to temptation. There is a saying from on high "we test the gold with fire, and we test the servants with gold".

Hope

There is hope for all. There is salvation for every man, woman and child in this text. If you are a nice person, what can you do to help to make the World a better place, for we all know of the corruption and greed that is behind the problems of the World. In the past it was understandable to feel helpless and alone because we were just one voice, or a small group against the oppression and abuse of power. But now we know that there is something we can do that will make a very big difference. It can be done individually but has more effect in groups and organisations.

The Good

Visualisation is the most powerful tool in creation, second is the power of speech. Wow I hear you say, idle talk and daydreaming got us in this mess. But wait. Speech in its highest form is used as prayer, to speak directly to the creator about the problems in creation, and as we all know, a picture can tell a thousand words.

I remember seeing a cartoon once of a man down on all fours beating the dirt with both fists saying "Oh God, there is so much corruption and oppression on Earth, with killing and bloodshed, brother turning against brother, nation turning against nation, why oh why don't you do something about it!" and a loud voice came booming but lovingly down from above and said "I did, I sent you" That, Ladies and Gentlemen, is where we find ourselves today. We volunteered to take up the challenge to come here to help our own development and to help to make the World a better place for all of its inhabitants.

A prayer like “Oh God, please make the World a better place” is going to be heard, but because we have not involved ourselves in it, there is not a lot that can be done to help us with our plan. If the Source of creation by whatever name you prefer, I will use the term God, wanted to change the World, as we know it, then it would have happened already with the snap of his fingers (metaphorically speaking) but that, is not the plan. The plan is for us to make the changes needed to help things along, so that a prayer must be structured not, in the victim mode (please save me) but in the active mode (what can I do to help). The strategy of the great achievers has always been, to devise a plan to work towards a certain goal. To visualise the desired outcome, and then work towards it. In this way, when we work within the plan, God, or the Universe does all He, it, can to help us along, but our wishes should be as direct as we can get them. Let me suggest a focus for you, a focus group is ideal, but never underestimate the power of a determined individual.

When you pray, see yourself surrounded by light and protected from negative energy. Try something like this. “Heavenly Father, help me to serve you, guide me to people I can help, and to people who can help me to achieve this. I offer myself for service to help to make the World a better place”. This is the first part of your plan, you have made the direct request. Next, and it is important at this next stage to visualise through meditation, in the present tense, the World as you would like it, re-enforce the justice and abundance in this time, visualise the time is now, it has already happened. While you visualise you can also re-enforce the picture by saying to yourself, how beautiful the World is at this time of peace and abundance, truth and justice are the cornerstones of this new civilization. Be sure to keep your visualisation in the now, it has happened. While in this relaxed state be aware that you may receive inspiration and ideas to help all of this along. This my friend, is going to make a vast difference to the way we all live here on Earth in the very near future.

The not so good

Make amends, is the message to all who fail to listen to their conscience. You know it is not right to steal and to deceive. You were born a noble being with potential to help the World along, but you have been deceived by others, and yourself, that there is an easier way to get by without honest toil. All of life is a test to see what you will do in certain circumstances, will it be self or service. Everything you do is recorded, and will be used in evidence against you, by yourself, when you come to face your life review. There is no hiding from truth, there are no secrets, all will be revealed. How will you feel about that? These days, often where there has been a crime of violence against an older person, the culprit is obliged to come face to face with the victim. Many of the offenders are reduced to tears and feel very sincere remorse for their actions when they realise what they have truly done in the cold light of day. This is going to happen. All who offend will face judgment sooner or later. This is a fact. No one has ever “got away with it” for any ill deed, ever, and never will. Think about it.

The different

Just as in the case of criminals, the “well off” must look to their intentions, are they motivated and act for self and dynasty, be it large or small, or do they act for the good of all? Gone are the days of empire building, when many made their claim to the resources of the World. The early successful ones called them selves Kings, and established “decent of bloodline” to preserve ownership of territory or possessions, to their descendants. The later dynasties and cartels were founded on accumulations of great wealth, whether their gain was ill gotten or not. These “times gone by” were in reality dark ages in comparison with today, for there was little or no attention given to the welfare of the people of the World. Today as man reaches maturity through understanding personal responsibility and conscience, it is a totally different reality that we find our selves in. Most people now understand that what is going on, is not in the best interest of the people at this time.

The wealthy at this time in history have the chance to change the World forever, turning it from a place of oppression and labour, for the vast majority of the people, to a paradise fit for the beautiful reality of each and every human being. The wealthy and privileged have within their plan, the means and intention to do so. The plan is flexible, but it is a life path that we agree to, which means that if you are wealthy and privileged, that this is the life plan for you, and that you came here to improve things for the good of all.

Nearly everyone has heard the expression “Oh how the mighty can fall” this is what will happen for all of those on their return to the realms of light, where we all come from and will all one day return. These previously semi evolved souls will have the realisation of missed opportunity, their inability to act out the plan will ring home and self realisation of their own short term self interest, will shout louder than most things in your consciousness. The very fact that they have been able to be one of the wealthy and privileged is proof that they have an exalted opportunity in this incarnation, leading to the assumption that they came from a high position in the Spiritual realms where we all truly reside and will return to after this life. “The plan” is everything. The plan is our reason to exist here, it is the only reason, and possible way, to get here, listen to your conscience, if we were perfect there would be no need or reason to be here, but we are not. We must learn from our own experience, listen to our conscience and try to stick to the plan. If you are in any doubt about your details of your specific plan, don’t worry, help will be given to you, but your interest and intention must be for all actions to be, for the good of all concerned, for the benefit of all mankind. For all of the people who stay on a negative path, this is the message. You are going down.

All you need to do to stick to your plan is, to be a nice person and be prepared to help someone in need. It's as simple as that.

Chapter 1

The very near future for mankind

We are about to enter a time of plenty, in a world of abundance, at a time of peace, foretold by all the religions and prophets through out time. There will be a Spiritual awakening for mankind, a coming of age, an increase in awareness of Universal Law and it's application. This knowledge will be taught in churches and schools. There will be full employment opportunities for all who want to contribute to this society. All people of the world will have an abundance of all that they need, and as a consequence stealing will end and crime as we know it will become a thing of the past. There will be no more war because man will not take up arms against his brothers and sisters. Technology will be developed to lift much of the burden of physical labour from the shoulder of mankind. In short we are looking at a heaven on Earth.

This is the message to you.

Not only is World Peace and Prosperity possible, it is inevitable

This site is intended for the serious seeker. Baseline Spiritual knowledge could be called knowing about our own immortality, and the basic laws of cause and effect. Generally speaking, a seeker is one who seeks Spiritual knowledge, and when this is found, tries to learn as much as possible about it, to pass on all this knowledge to others, as well as living as good a life as they can. To do this is excellent and in doing so are fulfilling their reason for incarnation. This in reality should be the basis of lessons taught in schools and churches, for it is basic education. Getting this information to all the inhabitants of the planet is of paramount importance. This is what you might call passive mode. While it is very honourable and worthwhile, this is still in a passive state. The serious seeker is one who is trying to go from passive, to an active level of conscious awareness, to use this and more knowledge in a positive and beneficial way for mankind. This is not a call to demonstrate in the streets, or to try to force a change of the status quo. The tool of love is an essential one, in all aspects of the move towards a peaceful prosperous World. This is Spiritual cage fighting, where we can learn to use our Love, compassion, understanding and dedication, at a much higher and effective level, to help us to bring light to the darker areas of the World.

First we must see things as they really are.

Here are some things that need to be re-evaluated in order to progress.

Let me bring some well-known facts to your attention.

Chapter 2

Things that need to be seen differently to make all of this possible

Food.

Millions starve and many die through lack of food on a daily basis. What can we do?

We already live in a world of plenty. There should be no food shortage. There is enough capacity for food production right now to feed the world population to a level of abundance. But, thousands of tonnes of food per day are left uneaten on plates in homes and restaurants to be emptied into the garbage. Thousands of tonnes of food per day exceed their shelf life and have to be thrown away into the garbage. Millions of tons of food in the EEC and USA and millions more world wide, get destroyed each year and ploughed back into the ground to maintain the market price of the product. Many farmers are paid not to produce a certain crop and to leave good ground unused so as not to flood the market and so reduce the price. This is unacceptable. But we ALL know all about it, we accept it, we are part of this situation, going along with it makes us part of the problem. The people in the relatively well of countries can never truly be healthy or happy and at ease knowing that half the world is hungry. We say, "that's the way it is, it's the way of the world" and at the present time that statement is correct. But it does not mean that it's the way it was meant to be, or indeed will be.

We must all accept collective and individual responsibility for this neglectful waste and misuse of valuable resources. We must all work to change this situation. We could buy just what we need, with tinned food and items with long life for unexpected moments. To cut out unnecessary waste is a very big thing for our own personal responsibility and spiritual growth. Try to think about it, understand it, and put it in to action. If we are doing all that we can, as many of us do, then please try to help those who are still in a wasteful way of life. These people are normally younger who have grown up in a time of plenty but they still need to learn to live this way. There is plenty of food for all but it is not being distributed, there is no excuse for anyone on this planet to go hungry.

To make a change for the better, we must know what needs fixing. The fault lies not with the farmer, not with the wholesaler, but with the way of life here at this time. The whole system at the moment is geared to producing profit for all of those involved in the enterprise, whatever it may be. We see the opposite of profit as loss. We don't want to go into loss and lose the things and lifestyle that we have achieved this far, so we look for more and more profit, to distance ourselves from the event of loss. Profit and loss are both ends to the swing of a pendulum. Neither is in balance with harmony, which humankind craves Spiritually speaking.

To talk of nationally owned industries and resources, energy and agriculture, reminds us all of bygone days of crumbling antiquated inefficient unreliable experiences of the past here in the UK. There is also the example of Communism that crumbled in Russia and elsewhere in various countries Worldwide. Both ways were set up with the best of intention, but with the passage of time, came under the control of those who did not have the interests of society at heart, and the whole exercise became a way to control power, wealth and personal position.

Fuel

There is no fossil fuel shortage, never has been and will not be for many many years if at all. The way of the world in high finance is to control a commodity, cause a shortage and put the price up. All energy prices spiral upwards at an accelerated rate year by year while extraction costs match inflation and we say, "that's the way it is, it's the way of the world, and at the present time that statement is correct. There are many alternate energy sources that are clean and renewable that doesn't get to be used and developed because they would be in competition with the oil gas and electric companies who control most of the energy market on the planet. Energy is being controlled and sold, by ones who do not own it. There is plenty of fuel and many fossil fuel alternatives.

Money

When you buy an item, no matter if it is a car or a house, a potato or an orange, all you are paying for is the cost of the labour. God, absolutely free of charge, supplies all of the materials. Do you sometimes feel over charged? The free ore from the ground is smelted and processed by a labour force, same thing with clay to bricks and wood to paper. Free oil is found and pumped out by a labour force. Free electricity is transformed through generators by a labour force to lights cities and towns. God lifts trillions of tones of water per year from the Oceans and transports it to the land to fall as rain and snow, a labour force maintains the reservoirs and pipes. Technology is developed by a workforce, this technology helps us to utilise more efficiently the resources freely given by God. To sum up, the only thing that carries a price is the toil of the human being.

Financial institutions

The money that is in use anywhere in the world has no value; there is no supply of gold anywhere to back it up. There may have been once but that was a long time ago. Its only actual value it has is to use it as a form of fuel by burning it to keep warm. The money we use is a means of credit to supply a service to exchange for an item or service. In other words you go to work and get paid, or draw your benefit, and buy what you need or want. The problem with this is that banks control the money supply. Let me give you an example.

If I go to work and make cars, I get paid and I buy a house. The man who makes houses gets paid and he buys a car. Everyone is happy. The banks, which in effect print money that has no value, want some of this action and suggest we buy now, pay later. If we take a loan over a period of time to buy a house the item cost could be say £100,000.00 but what you finally pay back rises to £250000 over 25 years if you are lucky. The bank takes the £150.000 and you are in debt. The current credit collapse is due to just this, an over willingness on behalf of the banks to give anyone and everyone a loan.

Because we are encouraged towards competition instead of cooperation, when things are in demand and times are good the price goes up. Spiralling inflation that we haven't seen for many years, fuelled by ever-easier loans. So we have a credit collapse, but only a credit collapse because people still want cars but they can't have one because you can't get finance, but if you had the funds you don't buy because you don't know if you will have a job next week. People still want everything that is produced but the credit crunch means factories are closing even though people desperately want what they make. To make things worse most money is now hyper money in hyperspace, which means you can't even burn it to keep warm so it is worth zero to us, and none other, than a means to keep mankind enslaved and in debt.

Just think about this. If we didn't charge for our services and nobody else did, there would be free products of every description. The Earth doesn't charge for oil or metal ores, or coal for producing electricity, the only real cost is in the energy put in by individuals. Free metal from the ground is melted in factories that could be built and maintained by free labour using free power. The metal is then made into machines to make products. Whenever there is a recession or a financial depression or collapse the people of the world still need all of the same things they did the week or month before. The earth does not refuse to give up its ore for making metal, the crops do not refuse to grow, people don't want to stop buying the things they need. Financial restraints put on the companies by the money markets cause them to close or go on short time. The learned dependence on money causes most of the inequality and suffering in the world today. Have you noticed how with the current world monetary collapse, that the governments are plunging their countries into massive debt to bail out the banks who caused the problem in the first place. By doing this they are causing more of a problem by leaving massive debt for future generations. The UK government has even recently printed billions of pound notes to put into the economy with no agreed value or collateral to back it up. There was no loan taken out and no finance deal put in place, just the printing of notes and hyper money. This just goes to show how ludicrous the system of money is and how easy it is to change the rules at will.

There is no need today for this learned dependence on money and certainly no excuse for the abuse of it.

Leading to.

Financial scams

Some years ago a well know employer somehow managed to loose the pension fund of his workers. Since then a lot of companies have gone bust and the pension money has been lost and or miss-appropriated but not one person has been brought to account or gone to jail for this act, and in some cases the amounts have gone into many millions. These day's governments have used the pension money to plug holes in their leaky antiquated economic structures. No one has been charged or gone to jail. Gas and electric companies have hidden scams in their small print. The amount of different tariffs you can choose on line is endless. It may seem that more choice is good, and for a very few it probably is, but the problem is that many people are miss sold tariffs that are not going to save them money, they will often cost them very much more because so many variants reside well hidden in the small print. TV programs that have expensive for the viewer phone your vote lines, that until recently still charged for the call after the count is taken and the call is useless. This is stealing. Some companies and people at those companies were reprimanded but it still goes on, nobody seemed to go to jail, nobody even seemed to go to court, the only difference is now they say, "don't forget if you phone after the line has closed you may still be charged but your vote wont be counted" What is this "may be charged". When the line is closed it should be closed and unable to connect to the server, not to do this is deceitful and people are still being conned if they are not paying close attention to the dialling instructions. At the present time we live in a society that has many problems where institutions like Government and banking, (and let us not forget that these are the cornerstones of society), appear to have large areas that would seem to be unjust, reckless with other peoples money and corrupt. The main point is that every one knows this is happening and no one does anything about it. Con's that lie hidden in small print should be made null and void, and the office of fair-trading should have more staff and more power to uphold fair play and justice and to be able to guarantee that all is as it seems. All should work to a recognised code of practice. People who are tricked or conned should be reimbursed, compensated and or let out of their contract.

Religion

Lets talk a little about religion. Religion is the continuing revelation from God to mankind, Spiritual knowledge, and the understanding of Universal law. We as a species are developing mentally and spiritually but left to our own devices, without constant guidance, we can tend to be led astray by those who we perceive to be, and have been taught to believe, are the ones who should be putting things right and who should be looking after all of our interests. Every thousand years or so a Divine revelation appears on Earth to guide mankind towards a peaceful coexistence based on love, justice and all of the spiritual virtues. From the dawn of recorded civilisation there have been examples through Krishna, Moses, Jesus, and Muhammad up to the more recent revelation of Baha'u'llah. The teachings bring to the world the information needed to help mankind through the next step of his development and are relevant to that time. They all speak from the highest realms of creation, in other words, the will of God, which is that we are all created equal by a loving God and he wants all of his children to live in peace and harmony. That means you, me and everyone on the planet. These words are so powerful that people flock to hear them and within a short time a new religion is founded. Every one of the Divine revelations were persecuted by the establishment of the time, with punishments like being imprisoned, banished from their homeland, criminalized and sometimes executed. But the message, being so strong and powerful that within time the new teachings replaced the old orthodoxy in that area of the world. Trouble is that man is too trusting for his own good, so that when the teaching of religion becomes distorted through vested interest on behalf of the leaders of these institutions or faction, and focus on the messenger instead of on the message, and there are those who take so called quotes out of context and interpret meanings in a totally unspiritual way, the whole issue becomes clouded, divided and loses most if not all of its spiritual value which is the very reason for its existence in the first place. When this happens superstition replaces logic, dogma replaces love, and those who cling illogically to this patchwork of contradiction and deceit descend once more into spiritual ignorance. True religion as being the word of God is, and should be, a guide to the practice and understanding of Universal law and its application. All of creation, of which we are a part, is founded on these unchangeable principles. Religion is and should be, a progressive revelation that always points the way forward for mans spiritual and physical development. One can judge true spiritual teachings by their spirituality. If Love Peace and Harmony are taught, with the will and the way of bringing all of the peoples of the world together in a peaceful and just society, then you know you have the real thing. True religion is about peace and harmony.

Science and Religion

When science and religion once again acknowledge each other and work together, what advancement we will see in technological and spiritual advancement on this planet. When the physicists and the technicians listen to their inner intuition whilst working for the highest and best good of all, and in harmony with Universal law, inspiration and know how will flow in abundance. We must remember that modern science is the limit of mans material understanding of Universal law and that religion is the direction and advice of the one who designed and put into practice Creation it's self. Theoretical science has been wrong on practically every assumption that it made about our surrounding planets; this was confirmed by the Hubble telescope and other probes that have been collecting information from our area of space. Other assumptions on reality can probably be equally flawed from a stand point of denial of a source of creation, the assumption that we are random life events that drift aimlessly through life with no other purpose than seeking pleasure and avoiding pain. Modern developments in quantum physics have forced a rethink on fundamental principles of orthodox scientific thinking. The acknowledgments of another dimension of sub atomic particles in a different Universe with apparently different rules from this Universe or dimension are still being ignored in some areas, and explained away by flawed old thinking.

Let us remember that

Science is mans limitation of the understanding of Universal law, and true Religion is, instruction from God, (the divine planner-creator,) as to its most beneficial application. Not only that, true religion is advise from God, the Creator, on how to make the best of this life by, not killing and robbing his other children (our brothers and sisters) but by showing love and kindness to others, especially those less fortunate than ourselves.

Relationships

Most couples often start out best of friends until the glamour wears off. If relationships are founded on material endowments like looks or money, then that is fine if the bonding grows deeper through time. When people find that what used to make them happy no longer works, then problems can set in. If the relationship does not move to the deeper level of mutual respect and wanting to contribute to it then trouble is around the corner. If someone's need in a relationship is "make me happy" then it is a death knell for further deepening and can probably go no further than take, take, take on behalf of that person. All material things are transient and cannot last forever, so to be building a relationship on them is a hiding to nothing other than short-term gratification. True lasting happiness can never be gained from physical things alone. True love will last for eternity. Question. What is true human love? Answer. Giving. If your relationship is in trouble and you want it to survive and you are both willing to work at it then that is a very good start. You must remember that cooperation not competition is very important to all aspects of life and that you both should contribute as much as you can to the partnership.

All material things have a relatively short life span, but the bond of true love can last forever, if that is your wish.

Animals

There has never been a directive from God through any known religion to eat the fellow inhabitants of the planet. How would we feel if this world was controlled by an advanced species that liked to eat meat, human meat? What would we tell our children when it was time for them to be taken to the abattoir? Think about this. At one time we knew no language as such, and we lived a primitive life, but we have developed over the years both mentally and spiritually. Who is to say that the other animals on this planet are not on this same path and will not evolve as we did? Animals dream and we know and can tell they have feelings. It is fair comment to point out that lions and many other free roaming animals eat meat, and some would say that this is proof that all animals should do it, but all animals can live on other food. I have a friend who has two big dogs and he feeds them on a vegetarian mix from the pet shop. When he has given them a small quantity of raw meat just to see how they will react, they have smelled it but not eaten it because veg is all they have ever known. They get all the nourishment they need and are happy with this. All of the larger land animals are vegetarian. Instead of looking to lions and saying "they do it so it's ok if we do" we should say, "It isn't right, how can we help to change their behaviour". There is a phenomenon called the "one hundred monkey syndrome" that was first named after a very odd thing was noticed on a group of remote and isolated islands. Researchers found that a group of monkeys from one particular island were shown how to wash a certain food to remove sand from it. After a while all of the monkeys on the island learned how to perform this new task. The islands were quite far apart from each other and certainly too far for a monkey to swim, but within a short time of the first monkey population learning the task, all of the monkeys on all of the islands in the locality were doing it. Other experiments were done on this theme and all seemed to show the same results. This would point to a collective consciousness like a shoal of fish that manoeuvre simultaneously, or ants who are working for the good of the community at various tasks, but who get their direction from another source than their own. At this moment in time, human perception of Spiritual realities has collectively increased in proportion to the amount of Spiritual knowledge been made available, and general education received. In other words, the habit of meat eating can be changed quite easily.

One day the lion will lie down with the lamb. This is possible within one or two generations.

Medicine

While modern medicine insists on treating the presenting symptoms and not the underlying cause, then good health will ever be an illusion for the masses who rely on doctors to look after their health. There will always be a need for some medicine and surgery, but the way forward for good health on Earth, is by treating and maintaining balance in mind, body and spirit, to see where the problem lays and then address it. Usually disease is exactly what it says, that the body is ill at ease with circumstances of one kind or another, so that illness and disease set in, the higher intelligence immune system is unable to access the area of concern due to blockages of energy due to emotions such as anger and hatred, stress anxiety to name but a few. The medical profession acknowledge that stress is the biggest cause of disease, but by prescribing tranquillisers, once again the symptoms, and not the cause, are the orthodox focus. By maintaining balance between mind body and spirit, the immune system, which is the most efficient defence system in the known Universe, has its best chance of looking after your well being, which is its prime concern. If one can live in balance with nature, our surroundings, other people and Universal law it's self, then good health and well being should follow. Of course there are always exceptions.

Disability

When one sees a child with a disability in a wheel chair our heart goes out quite rightly for them. The reasons that this particular soul has chosen to take this life can be many and varied; I would like to offer you two examples. One is that a soul who has made many mistakes in a different life may be able to wipe the slate clean by living a life with a handicap, so as to be of service to those who need to go through a certain set of circumstances for their own development, and to personally endure adversity for themselves in that lifetime. Another reason is that, the soul may want to evolve higher so to offer this service from advancement prospective rather than a damage limitation one. Whichever one it is, we cannot know, they do not know, but they are giving service to humanity one way or another and need all of our help and best wishes to succeed without becoming bitter or angry at their situation. The most important thing to remember is. It is not important what happens, the important thing is how we deal with it, which doesn't mean we don't care, but we should always strive to make the best of what we do have. When we do this and live our life in a way that is in the best interests for all concerned, then we will fulfil our life plan and receive full reward on our return to the realms of light where we belong, we will have justified our reason for existence here.

Politics

Since the days of the signing of the Magnaa Carta when The Barons and Dukes were given rights to advise and council with the monarchy, whereby the king had limitations imposed upon his previously unchallenged power and right to do as he wished, common man still was cannon fodder for the wealthy and powerful, used to fight wars, supply services and pay taxes to those who controlled the money supply. When a form of democracy came to Britain at a heavy price courtesy of Oliver Cromwell many years later, few could deny that it was much needed. The Kings of the past had been good King bad King, and the people needed a voice. This evolved into a parliament of sorts and gave the country at local level a means to contribute to the running of things. The members of parliament were usually well of landowners or businessmen who spoke for the needs and desires for their area of the country. These wishes were usually for the good of business in the area. In other words the wealthy. When the labour party came into being, the common man at last had his voice heard. Social services and a National Health Service were a Godsend to the ordinary people. In time the abuse of the newfound power of the labour movement came to a head in the 70s, with widespread strikes and a general taking over of the running of things on the shop floor, by having an almost completely united workforce. Things got out of control with runaway inflation, apathy on the shop floor, many poor quality goods being produced and a general lack of responsibility towards manufacturing output of the country. A large part of manufacturing industry went out of business through being unreliable and non efficient. Enter the Liberal party in a bid to bring the centre ground to the fore. As of yet this has not been too successful. The problem may be that to have an effect on outcomes they vote first with one party then with the other party in wheeling and dealing so as to be hard to define their position. So now in the main part we have confrontation between conservative and labour, left and right. Because this is confrontation we see MPs voting against each other to defeat them rather than to vote for good policies for the good of all concerned. The main point here being that before each major change from the Magnaa Carta through Cromwell and the Labour party, who would have thought that that particular event would come into being, because at that time the people would say that "that's the way things are, It's the way of the world" and at that time they were right but it didn't mean that that's the way they were meant to be, or the way they turned out to be. This brings us to the present day state of affairs. Now, in this day we do not need more than one party to look to the best interests of us all. The party who will do the best and the highest for all concerned are the next stage of our development. We need to develop a system where we can have street, neighbourhood, area, town, county and national assemblies, who have been chosen from the community for their upright stance towards honesty, integrity, and who possess spiritual virtues such as compassion, mercy and intuition for the right choices. We need to insist on the highest ethics for our new system of government to work towards a society based on cooperation and not competition. A National assembly who will work towards helping to bring peace and prosperity to all of the peoples of the World.

Dreams

We all dream at night for approximately one third of our sleep time. It is known as REM sleep "Rapid eye movement". There are those who never remember the dream but it is something we all do without exception. Without dream sleep we cannot survive, it has been proven that when denied it, in controlled experiments, then our well being declined rapidly and we could no longer function properly due to extreme tiredness. While in dream sleep our consciousness is in another dimension. A place without time where we cannot be hurt or hurt anybody else. A reality where we can pass through solid objects and change our surroundings, where we can be travelling on a bus that turns into a speed boat and we exit the room through a wall to get to the lake to end up flying like a bird. We all have this similar experience each night. We are told by spiritual religious philosophy that the lower spiritually evolved, cannot mix with the higher spiritually evolved in our true spiritual home, so we know that in dream land we are in the astral plane, close to the physical one, where, like on Earth it is possible to inhabit the same area with high and lowly evolved spirits. Another thing about dreams is that the old and infirmed who might be wheelchair bound, or blind and deaf, often have no such problem in their normal sleep state, there is no lasting old age or any other disability.

The main point here is the proof of another dimension that we all have daily links and journeys to. Dreams are a good way for us to receive direction as to what we should be looking to work on in our earthly lives.

Summing up

We live in a beautiful picturesque world of plenty. There is an abundance of food. Technology is available today, and is being developed to allow machines to do most of the manual work that needs to be done, to maintain a care free and relaxed way of life, for all of the people on this wonderful planet that we call Earth. A place where we can apply all of the spiritual principles that we have all been taught from childhood, like help your fellow man, help the sick, be generous to the needy, be a guiding light to the lost, a message that is taught to all of the children of the world, so that when we return to the realms of light where we came from and truly belong, and we are asked "what did you do to help to make the world a better place" we can say "I did my best".

All of the things to make this possible, the technology, the resources, and the intellectual capacity of mankind are here, and are now in place and capable of bringing this into being.

WHAT is going wrong, why is this not being done, what is the vital ingredient that is missing to turn this beautiful world at this time into a heaven on Earth? We cannot emerge into a bright just new future, by trying to repair the flawed old system that has failed us time after time, and does not and will not work for the benefit of mankind.

The answer is US

We are making do with things as they are. Government stumbles from one calamity to another, from one disastrous war to another, from one financial fall to another, from one political scandal to another, from one protectionist policy to another, and is always in competition with every one else, US and THEM. Competition is winners and losers, victory and defeat, getting one over on, de humanising our brothers and sisters. WHAT IS THE ANSWER?

LOVE is the answer. Love for our fellow man, love for the planet, our home and family, love for all of creation.

Chapter 3

Universal Law

There are four major basic Universal laws in operation that underpin all of creation.

No 1 Law of attraction: like attracts like.

No 2 The Law of deliberate intent: That is, what is intended and held within thought, word and deed will manifest one-way or another, whether it is good or bad, the Universe will endeavour to give us what we ask for. We all made our own present and will all make our own future, we just have to realize this and do something about it. This is often referred to nowadays as positive thinking and visualization but is probably better known and used in the context of the power of prayer. Many life skill books are based on this principle.

No 3 The Law of allowance: allowing what is focused on and asked for, to happen while using the observer mode and not getting in the way of completion, to hold the focus while being awake and aware to what is going on around us, but allowing thought to think. To keep working toward but not get into detail of how it will happen.

No 4 The law of balance. Karma, Cause and effect, all debts will be paid and all service will be rewarded to the exact point of balance between positive and negative. Any good deed we can see as plus on our Spiritual bank account, and any negative mistakes we have made (while hopefully we learn from our mistakes) we can see as a debit. The ideal is to have a healthy plus balance so that when a rainy day hits us one way or another or we make another mistake, we will have an excess of positive Universal energy at our disposal to help us through the hard times. Hard times will come, for it is through adversity that we can make large steps towards our spiritual growth, so it is we will experience happy days and times of plenty. Just as we are advised to put a little bit aside for when we may need it, it is good practice to save a little or a lot of good will.

And then there is Free will. The biggest single problem, and God send, that there is. We are all given enough opportunities to give or take, to serve or to manipulate, to share what we have or to steal. We all write our own script in this life. You could describe Free will as a long dangling rope and we are given enough slack to be able to use it as a lifeline (throw down a line) for someone in need, or to tie it round our own neck (give them enough rope, and they'll hang themselves).

Chapter 4

What are we going to do about it?

But wait, what can we do about it?

Coming out of denial.

We must rethink the way we see the World and our place in it. How many times have you heard it said "when will we learn to live in peace, and stop making war on each other" as if it is our fault. Tell me this, when was the last time you started a war? It doesn't happen. We blame ourselves for all of this; we allow ourselves to be put in the helpless victim mode and follow blindly where we are led. And then there is "all of the poor people starving in the world, why doesn't somebody do something" HELLO ! This is your wake up call, do something.

Look at all the observations and situations that we have touched on here. These are all of the things that affect our life in this World. We have the food the fuel the scams the financial system with the use of money, religion, animals, medicine and Government.

Is it True or False?

Do we believe we have heard an honest representation of life on Earth? If not then please let me know what you do not agree with, if so, then this is the first step into the light. Coming out of denial. Look at the alcoholic who can never help himself while he will not, cannot see his problem. They will say, " I haven't got a problem, I just like a drink, I could stop tomorrow if I wanted to". While an alcoholic is in denial, you cannot help them. If you take the bottle away they will get another one. You cannot help them. An alcoholic must stand up and acknowledge, " I AM AN ALCOHOLIC " before he can start to work on his recovery. So it is that before we can start to turn things around to make this a better world, we must admit to our selves that WE are part of the problem with the world, but that WE want to do something about the problem that we have allowed to come about. We will all say and think, "what difference can I, just one person make" But the world is full of us just one person, and the people who want to change things make up the vast majority of the population of this Planet. The change will come about when a sufficient number of people realise and say that "this is not right, things must change". This is not about guilt or blame. This is a wake up call to humanity about personal responsibility and what to do about it. It is not revolution but a Spiritual evolution.

The Laws of the Universe allow help to those who are not in victim mode. "The Lord helps those who help themselves". Remember the denial of the alcoholic who will not admit to his problem but is happy to continue. All of the more evolved people and beings around him can see where he is going and where he will end up, because he will not realistically see what is the reality of his predicament. These people are in denial.

THEY CANNOT BE HELPED.

Then there are partial seekers. Many think and say “ there must be more to life than this, who am I, why am I here, what is life all about” but some rarely go beyond this point. Some seek and find spiritual knowledge, which is good, and they may live and teach spiritual knowledge, which is even better. All of this is preparation alone for the wake up call.

We humans are such creatures of habit, it is probably linked to evolution and survival, you copy this, you survive, you do it this way, and you survive. The way we do things these days is to follow instructions from those who we think have our interests at heart. We follow “the way it is” blindly hoping that one-day the World will become a better place. Think for yourself when you do anything, will this help mankind in any way.

True beneficial change comes from the bottom up, not from the top down, but when a peaceful World comes about, it will need strong defences, the ability to use necessary force to defend from a possible aggressor, but tempered with justice. There will always be those who want to take what you have, but there is no reason for a peaceful society to be a weak and easily toppled society. At a time of threat soldiers would fight in defence of justice and freedom, not for the purpose of grabbing wealth and control of resources. I am not talking about threats from anywhere else other than right here, those who have a vested interest in wanting to keep mankind down and at each others throat. When peace finally comes the World will be a place of untold abundance and prosperity the likes of which have never been seen by the majority of the people of this planet.

We all have our own personal reality of who we are and where we fit into the scheme of things, but we must remember that we are spiritual beings and we have the responsibility to want to help to make the world a better place. This is the only reason for life to exist here on Earth and it is the only reason that we come here.

Many of the youth of today who through lack of spiritual focus and positive opportunities, will drift into groups to hang around together and probably get into mischief through boredom and for excitement. Most of them are good kids who lack direction. There is no such person as a bad un, only young souls who through life's often negative experience, have become angry, cruel or destructive. Youngsters such as these are often cruelly targeted by extremist groups, and misled as to what life is all about. They have so much potential to serve humanity that is being perverted into destructive activity, and it is for them, a crying shame, pray for them also.

We are led to believe through the media that man is naturally an aggressive warlike being who is prone to lying and dishonesty. This is not so, we were all born with a plan that we agreed to, to advance spiritually, to help to make the World a better place. No one was ever born bad. It can't happen. Many people in fact almost all people have the potential to hurt and kill but this would only be done in self defence or when our lives or the lives of our family or friends is threatened. I say almost all because there are some gentle souls who would rather allow themselves to be hurt, than hurt another. Some learn to cheat and bully others through following the pattern of behaviour from their family or people who teach them such ways. This is just a lack of basic education, for most children are following their life plan by trying to be nice and to make a brighter future for all. The biggest problem a lot of the children have is that they are taught about the way things are and not how they should be. Children should be brought up in a loving environment that teaches compassion, hand in hand with discipline, society must live within rules. Total freedom just leads to anarchy the like that is being experienced by many a decent family at the hands of wayward miss led youths and children. We should strive to give our children what they need rather than what they want. To give children what they want all the time can be a great drain on the family's resources and drive people into debt, and when you get in debt it can be a hard game getting out again. Children who get what they ask for all the time can become used to the idea of receiving all the time without having to put in any effort from themselves. This can lead to selfishness and a lethargic attitude with possible comments like "why should I". In real life Work = reward, effort = reward. Nothing comes from nothing, and to let children get into the habit of receiving something for nothing, is to give a child, a completely distorted understanding of life in general, and causing massive problems for the child and the society that they live in.

There is no point in praying "please God bring peace to the world save us from all of its ill's" and asking for a new messiah to save us all, because this is not going to happen. The ones who were sent did their job as well as they could. Look what happened to them. This does not mean that help is not at hand; it means that we must ask for help so that we change things.

We must not be in Victim mode.

Look to the example of Germany whose people after being misled into two world wars, were divided between east and west. On the demise of communism the German people of west Germany decided to take the responsibility to bring their fellow country men and women who lived in the east of the country, up to their standard of living. For a few years the West German people suffered a huge burden to invest money and resources on behalf of their fellow countrymen. After a time the hard work paid off for the united Germany is once again one of the richest countries in the world. People from less well of countries went there for work to make a better life for themselves and the rest of the people in their new homeland. Working together in a common united and uniting cause, will always bring blessings and rich rewards for the participants. In other words the rebuilding of civilization will be hard work, but achievable, and well worth it.

We must all work together for a common cause.

Cooperation is the key. PEACE + EDUCATION = PROSPERITY.
You don't fight poverty, poverty has been created, you END poverty.

You don't fight wars; you transcend them by global dialogue and the use of the phrase "for the highest and best good of all concerned" to be the last and defining will and word. You vote NOT for political party by what ever name, you vote for PEOPLE who are honest and of high spiritual character to implement the will of all the people "for the highest and best good of all concerned". The leaders of communities and nations should be the one's who have commitment to truth, integrity, and openness and for the highest and best good of all humanity.

We as a race (the human race) can't be fully healthy, happy and content when large numbers of the population of the world are starving and very much in need. Our progress as a species is being hindered and in many cases possibly reversed due to the negative actions that are being done by elected governments, that means we must take responsibility for their actions. If we didn't vote for a system, the system would not be in place. For the people of the world who want to make a difference, let this be your wake up call.

This form of Government must change

Lets take a little look at the

The human brain

It is accepted in the medical and scientific circles that we only use 10% to 20% at most, of our brain. This means that they don't know what the other 80% to 90% does. If we round this number down for the unknown area to a conservative figure of 75%. Now it is known that nature only creates what it needs, there is no wasteful use of energy or resources. This means that the so far uncharted areas of the brain contain the potential for four times the capacity that we use right now. It could be that some areas are in use already but science is unable to record activity through instruments in use at the moment. We know that some, if not all, people can channel energy, wisdom and messages; these may be some of the uses of those areas. Maybe 10% maximum could be accounted to this activity at most. That leaves a massive 70% to 80% unaccounted for. If we theorise that mans total known capacity at the moment, counting telepathy, channelled energy healing, and philosophy, account for a maximum 30% of known brain use, then what fantastic potential we possess already for extended life span, good health, and Spiritual awareness, when we are able to develop and utilize the capacity we already have at this moment.

The Human brain, in fact any brain, is a transmitter and a receiver. Our immune system, a system that is far and above any system ever devised by man, is in communication with a higher form on consciousness all the time. (Do you know what a flue virus looks like, can you mend a broken bone at the cellular level or stop blood from escaping from inside your veins, keep your heart beating, control your breathing and temperature) The immune system never closes down while life continues in the physical body. This passive (as far as we are concerned, we cant stop it, we only now know about it) but very active, as far as keeping us alive against disease illness and injury, is only a tiny part of the other activity of the brain. We can hinder the immune system by allowing anger, fear addiction to control us, but we can't stop it, it is in constant communication with a higher intelligence. If, through the practice of prayer (and don't forget that meaningful prayer is asking to be of help to make the world a better place) and meditation, we can unlock the potential of this magnificent organ, then what possibilities are possible for us all and what a huge step forward for mankind's development.

Remember that the most prolific inventors don't know they have the potential to invent until they get the inspiration to create. The most intelligent of mankind were born normal people with fantastic potential that lay hidden until the right time. We have the opportunity right now to start work on unlocking this huge treasure chest of creative potential that lies in each one of us. To do this we must work for the best and highest good of all concerned, blending material needs with Spiritual focus. To free ourselves from this material slavery that we find ourselves in is just a realization of the way things are. When enough people gain this knowledge the illusion will be over. The illusionist can only trick people who do not know how the trick works; when they do find out they wonder how they were ever fooled in the first place. All of the things discussed here are common knowledge, but we say "yes but that's how things are, it's the way of the world" at the moment that statement may be correct but it does not mean that it is how things were meant to be or indeed will be.

Personal Responsibility means taking action to balance the unbalance, to bring love where there is hatred, to bring harmony where there is chaos, to bring discipline where there is disorder and to bring peace where there is war. Each one of you will open your own door to the Spiritual Power of Love within you when you start taking responsibility for all deeds. Each one who harmonizes and balances within brings the Light of Balance and Harmony to the pool of mass consciousness, so that it eventually will no longer be the area of darkness and despair that it is now. Please recognize that you each represent within you, the mind intelligence for Unlimited Spiritual Creative Potential. There is much joy to be a part of this Potential. Let go of the illusion of separation from Creation. Let go of the attachment to the physical and emotional aspects of this Limited Plane. Be responsible for what is your job to the clean up before you and SPREAD THE WORD OF TRUTH
We must understand that now is the time to know that

We don't need a dependence on a flawed old system that no longer has any benefit for mankind, namely money

We must come out of denial of how things really are

We must not be in Victim mode

We must all work together for a common cause

This outdated form of Government must change

This, Ladies and Gentlemen, is what we do.

We must evoke Universal law, the law of deliberate intent. The power of prayer.

We should first visualize a time of plenty in a world of abundance at a time of peace where truth justice and integrity are the firm foundation of society. A world where Gods free food and resources, are shared equally amongst its peoples. A world where there is little or no illness, because the people live in a caring loving environment and there is no anger or hatred. A time when the rights of people are balanced with common sense and personal responsibility. A place where rules and laws are in place for the good of all concerned. A very near future of full employment where the workforce give their time freely to contribute to this system to be of service to mankind.

Visualize it, state your desire to be part of it. In your prayers for it to become, ask to be of help to bring this about. Say "I offer myself for service to help make this happy future a reality". Talk about it to all who want to listen. When enough people realized it was time for change in East Berlin, it happened. When enough people in East Germany realised it, it happened. When the people of Russia realised it, it happened. They all walked peacefully into a new way of life. When enough people Worldwide realise this beautiful inevitable future, it WILL happen. Spiritual truth spreads on an exponential curve, doubling each day the potential of this intent. Talk about it to friends, about how it might work but be flexible as to how it may actually come about; remember the law of allowing it to happen. The Universal energy available to help bring this about, knows many more ways than us to have maximum effect, so we should not get in the way but to let things happen. Hold the vision, form focus groups to discuss ways to inform more people. Remember the "one hundred monkey syndrome" so that when enough people realize the need for change, and this number can be calculated as a certain percentage of the population, then change is inevitable. Remember also the power of God, the ultimate infinite intelligence who has again and again sent us direction of how to come out of material slavery and to seek Spiritual ascension through peace and love for our fellow man. Hold fast to the knowledge that God has the power and is the mind behind creation that wants us to strive towards truth and justice and who wants his family of mankind to be united under the banner of love for all of creation. This power when used correctly cannot fail. It is no good trying to fix a system that has failed again and again; we must say "it is time for a complete change from material only, to a blend of material and Spiritual".

Your journey must be for the highest and best good for all of mankind

Tell those you meet

I am Special; I have come to make the world a better place.

You are Special; you've come to make the world a better place.

We are Special; we have come to make the world a better place.

Let this be your mantra, use it and ask in prayer, and or thoughts for help in this direction and it will come to you. Opportunities to help in some way will be given to you. You will see things differently and be able to make choices that can benefit others. This is the reason for life on Earth and your reason for being here at this time.

This next piece is probably the most important part of all.

Look back to when slavery ended in America all those years ago, many slaves were overwhelmed and afraid not knowing what to do. They had never been in a position of freedom before and many just stayed where they were and did what they did the week the month the year before. The difference being they now had rights and a wage for their labour. In time many left to become their own bosses, to create their own future to choose another way of life. The majority of the people of the world knew for a long time that slavery was wrong and should be abolished but it was many years before it was made illegal. In this time between realization and completion (being made illegal) many things happened to help bring about the change in international law. After the change in the law, and it took a civil war in America to bring about the final release to freedom for all of these people, some land owners in remote areas did not tell their slave workforce about their new found freedom and continued to run things the way they had been doing before. For as long as they could get away with it, they chose not to tell their workforce that they were free men and women. They continued to deny them access to the available knowledge to allow them to become free from their oppressive and unjust way of life.

This I truly believe is the situation of mankind today.

There is much made of the fact that mankind as a species, is coming to an age of maturity. The year 2012 is seen by many to be a defining date and time. We learn from all of the orthodox religions and Spiritual philosophies that as we advance Spiritually as a species in other words "mankind", there will come a time of enlightenment and we will build a better World. What I am suggesting is that, that time has come and in fact it came a while ago but we are only just now putting all of the pieces together, the information is now filtering through. It does not mean that we have lost an opportunity; it just means that we are now even more ready to accept the challenge. Look to the potential of mankind. Things have been brought to a head. Just like in our individual lives when we go around a problem instead of facing it, the problem comes back again and again getting bigger each time until there is no way around it. We can't go sideward or even backward, we have to face the challenge of dealing with the problem. This time the challenge is for the awakening of mankind.

Question. When was man ready to begin his Spiritual ascension?

Answer. When he first started to receive Spiritual direction as to how to bring this about, in other words from the time of the first Religions.

That was a long time ago. Not once was there a direction from God to secure the best interest rate from our brother, or to control resources to manipulate the price.

All of the basic principles of the main World Religions advocate Love for our fellow man, Help the needy, Heal the sick, the need to Spread this Spiritual knowledge.

That time is now

Look to the world as we see it at this time in history. Financial collapse (this monetary system has had its day and is no longer required and is in fact hampering the development of mankind) Political turmoil (war and international conflicts over vested interest from all sides) Industrial collapse (although people still need all of the things that they needed before the collapse)

Form your focus group.

Visualise this bright new World, and tell as many people who will listen about how things really are. If they are not ready to hear it then leave them to their own reality. You cannot push this information, it must be welcomed.

We are special; we have come to make the world a better place.

Man is the species. Woman describes the womb carrier wo-man for the continuation of the species. Hu is the ancient term of use for God. We aspire to be God like as our development continues. To be fully hu-man is to bring together the best aspirations of material man and blend them with the God like qualities of Spirituality. We are hu-man becoming, help us to become. This is a useful mantra in prayer and recitation for direction and inspiration for the help to achieve this.

May mankind fulfil his destiny by allowing this world to be a near heaven on earth through realization of his true potential.

Karma, Cause and Effect

You have to remember these few points. God by whatever name created creation. That is fact. No evil soul or entity can enter creation, because all living life forms are part of a plan, the plan of creation. We all made the decision to come here, to help to make the World a better place, to evolve Spiritually. All of life as we know it is a stage, and we all write our own script as to what we will do next, be it a good or poor choice. Don't worry about anything. Do your best, and know that all will be well, as the plan unfolds. If the whole thing goes pear shaped during our time, then we must have faith and realise it is all part of the plan. Spiritual growth usually comes through adversity, so the more we can endure, while trying our best to improve things, then the more we will have to show for our efforts. Keep love in your heart, and talk of understanding and compassion to those you meet, while asking for guidance to help change things for the better in your prayers, and then just do your best. The ones behind all of the mayhem in the World are only digging themselves into a deeper hole. One day they will have to answer for all of their negative acts, to a higher power. There have always been gangsters, criminals, and those who seek an easy way out, but we all know that "crime doesn't pay" and that is for sure. There is a beautiful future that awaits all good people, which will last, not for one hundred or a thousand years, but for eternity, because this is the true life span of the Spiritual beings that we truly are.

I am saying this.

Mankind has been taught to put his head in the yolk, allow his hands to be tied behind his back, and then work at the grindstone of life until he drops.

It must be made known to those who do things of a negative nature, that one day they will have to answer to a higher power for all of their deeds. Any good positive thing that we do will be rewarded. All of the negative events in our life will be examined in detail, and full understanding of our actions will be relived for all of those present to see. Nothing can be hidden, for it is ourselves who give the information because we want to understand why we did those negative things. If we have done very bad things, then we will relive all of the damaging negative emotions, anger, hatred, revenge, and we will remember all of the reasons that we did what we did. We will also be able to feel the emotions of the victim; we will feel their fear and sadness, maybe also the feeling of being betrayed, of them wondering why it is happening to them. Most of the time, generally speaking, violence erupts through miss understandings of one kind or another. Crime is committed on the miss conception that the perpetrators will get away with it. This is just not so. Every one who comes to Earth, does so with a definite plan to evolve and become a better person. There is no other reason or way to get here. This goes for the miss guided child and youth who thinks that because of his lack of education or some form of abuse or maybe just plain fear, getting in with a gang, will help him. Most of the time, when these children or youths grow up a little they see the mistakes they have made and change their ways for the better.

The crook or criminal who through lack of education and resources, chooses to steal and cheat rather than work for little reward.

What about the suicide bomber, who lacks a proper education, but who has the will to make a difference. Without a positive focus for his or her potential, they can fall into the hands of the extremists, whether left or right. Oh how they will weep when they realise that they have killed and maimed their beloved brothers and sisters.

Worse still are those who would keep mankind in a state of bondage and in ignorance of his Spiritual freedom, for their own vested interest. To control the finances of the World in such a way as to leave many starving in this world of plenty, who allow needless wars to rage with massive loss of life and limb, is by far worse than most other things one could think of. Once again lack of education is the cause. Do these people think that when it is their time to pass on from this world that they can just say sorry and everything will be all right. They came into this World with massive potential for the creation and control of vast fortunes with the wish to change things for the better, but this gift has been turned into a channel of greed in ignorance.

The laws that cover cause and effect are perfect; no good or bad deed done by anyone is ever overlooked. There are never any deathbed pardons given, just because someone says sorry at the last moments of their Earthly life. What a travesty of justice that would be if that could happen, a life time of selfishness made right just because someone makes a confession, whether it is sincerely meant or not. I can tell you now that it does not happen. Everyone no matter how rich or poor, high social standing or low, King, President and pauper, all face the same fate, we will all receive compensation and retribution for all the good and evil deeds done in this life. When you pass over from this life to the next, every body knows that you can not take any material possessions with you, but that also goes for physical strength and Earthly positions of power and influence, like a General a Bishop or even a Prince. The only thing that stays with you, and no one can ever take it away from you, is the Spiritual growth that you have attained. The only thing that is of any value to you throughout your life is Love. Allow it into your life, spread it far and wide, help those that may need assistance and by doing this you are helping yourself and doing God's will. All of Creation is the work of God. We are all brothers and sisters and all equal, the only difference between any one on Earth, are the circumstance and location of their birth and of course the fact that we are all at different levels of Spiritual development so as to be able to face the challenges that we need for the fulfillment of our chosen plan. The purpose of this text is to give encouragement to all the good people of the World and I think it is fair to say that the vast majority of folk are ordinary nice people who want to help but many are being led astray by material madness, this is the real crime of today. There are very few Saints or really evil people, just individuals with huge potential, which is being expressed different ways. The world is a beautiful place and we are entitled to enjoy all it has to offer. Hold with you the knowledge that your life and how you live it are in your hands alone; don't let any one tell you that hard work doesn't pay dividends, so long as it is of a worthwhile nature. None of us are perfect, if we were, there would be no need to come here. Man has a conscience that will always let him know if his actions are good or bad, but he also has free will that opens the door for mistakes, but lessons must be learned from these mistakes. If you feel that you or someone you know are stuck in a rut, material or selfish path, and with the benefit of Spiritual knowledge you want to turn things around for the better, then take heart, it is never too late to start to improve your own Spiritual development after all you have eternity. The only problem is, the longer you leave it, the more chance you may have to come back here to start again, and all you can bring with you is your Spiritual growth. If this has been little or none or even declined, what sort of life do you think you would qualify for next time around? Our destiny is of our own making, luxury can be nice but is not essential, make the best of what you have, always look to the positive, be nice, use your common sense and by doing this, you are fulfilling your purpose for living so that Mankind can grow individually and as a species.

Chapter 6

The workings, coming out of denial

How can we possibly have a world without money?

For a peaceful, harmonious and just global society, how can we possibly have a world with it?

We have a learned dependence on money. I have spoken to people on this subject and though they are in agreement with the idea, the first suggestion is that we return to a form of barter. This was used long ago before money was used, where you may be a farmer and would trade vegetables and wool for pots and pans. People would travel to far away lands for spices and jewellery in exchange for metal work or whatever. I must point out that this had its use in those days. If you try to have this system now you must ask, what about a little old lady (no offence to little old ladies) who knit scarf's, how many scarf's for a loaf of bread, or an electric fridge, or a holiday abroad. To have a World that did not run on money, there must be a shift in consciousness, by the realization that everything is in position right now, for this to happen. The rallying call, the need for it, and the explanation is, Service to Mankind. Link this with Personal Responsibility, and you have the potential for World peace and happiness. The young and the old, the sick and those unable to contribute to manual work will be cared for. All can contribute one way or another. There are those who are seen as work shy, who for one reason or another don't want to, or feel unable to contribute to this present system that seems so unjust and corrupt. This information could be the answer for them. There are those who through lack of knowledge, think to evade work and live on benefit, is clever, these people would benefit from education on their life plan, so as to awaken their Spiritual nature. Education, Education, Education. All of life is about helping those who are less evolved, to help them selves, to help them to become aware of their Spiritual connection, so that they can evolve and help others. Once realizes, all people want to contribute for the good of all. If some don't, then we have to give them time.

Let us not forget that with full employment and full production the World over, that we will be required to contribute part time only. At present, a small amount of factories produce a profitable commodity that is distributed around the World. This small amount of factories, for any particular product maybe only four of five in the whole World, work around the clock, (when not in recession). Once the system changes, there will be factories built around the World to produce goods locally, to whatever is the requirement for the distribution of commodities and resources. The people who have the skill and the desire to do so can go to less developed countries and build an infrastructure. Hospitals, schools, shops, factories, power plants and the like, can be built and manned by those with the appropriate skills, until such time as the local populace can be trained up, if necessary, to take over the task. There may not be jobs for all of those who might want one, because as technology advances there will be less work for the humans. Having said that, there will be schools and colleges for the advancement of science, art, Spiritual development and any subject that you can think of. Man wasn't built to work, but for survival and Spiritual development.

Personal Responsibility

A suggested method of distribution is this. Anyone can go to any store or service provider and be entitled to anything. It is then the responsibility of the consumer to not waste this precious resource. If it were food, then one should only take what is needed within reason on a weekly shopping trip for instance. It must be acknowledged that avoidable wastage is unacceptable. Because so many things will be made locally, there is no need to over produce. People who want a car can pick one that suits their requirements and leave their old one if they had one. Many do not need regular car use, so these could pick up a car to use on a holiday or for the weekend, and then return it when finished. There would however, need to be strict monitoring of who had what, not so much for fear of stealing, for there would be no need to steal anything, but more to monitor the usage and to maximize use and minimize wastage of these precious resources freely given to us by God. It is not suggested that we should all have a new car each year and scrap the old one. There would be garages that would be able to repair all vehicles while they are still in reasonable condition. When it comes to non-food items or clothing, to receive something that is new should not be more desirable than to have been given a used item that is clean and in good working order. To get something that is new might be viewed as, regrettably having to use more of our precious valuable resources, things that will thereafter not be available to future generations. Surplus vehicles could be shipped overseas to help those countries until their own production was able to supply their demand. Once everyone has a car, very few more have to be produced, as long as those made are serviced and repaired efficiently, by a skilled responsible workforce. Free and regular public transport will make travel anywhere, so much more relaxed and efficient.

Personal responsibility will dictate that couples should seek to maintain the world population, and possibly reduce it a little to make life more comfortable and spacious for future generations.

All of the things to allow this transition to happen, are here, and now in place. One would think that without the use of money, banks and their workers would be redundant and not needed. Although money will not exist, the banking network has an infrastructure that spans and connects the world of commerce. In other words, the banks, and they could still retain the name, could locate and organise, on a global scale, the distribution of resources and the accounting of its use. Once again this accounting of resources is by way of organising and acknowledging the movement and origin and availability of the items. We could all have our own bank account, but not an account of money; it would a monitor of our possessions. In other words, we would all have our own monitored account of things in our possession. It is so important to monitor, so as not to encourage waste, that we could be reminded if we need to return an item or receive guidance on any relevant subject. Things not in use can be returned to the system. We can carry our card, as we do now with a credit card, and book things out and back in to the system. Once up and running, the system will be designed to carry enough capacity for our needs, and some reserve for unexpected events or disasters, most may only be required to work now and again. We will not own anything. We will have the right to be in possession of the things we need, for as long as we need them. All resources will belong to humanity, to be distributed fairly, and organised by Government.

Nationalisation, Globalisation

As has been mentioned earlier, Government that seeks to promote the interests of one part of society over the other is no longer needed, and as such, will end. For each street, there can be a person elected, by secret ballot. That person should be chosen for their qualities of Spirituality, integrity, honesty and all round wisdom. There will be meetings by the people chosen in the area, to elect a local assembly. They in turn will meet regularly to get to know each other, and their individual qualities, so as to be able to choose one to go to represent their area at a county or state level. This process will go to National and World organisation level. These people will be chosen yearly. No one will stand to be elected. The person chosen will see the position as neither elevation nor hindrance. By having this kind of, or similar system, people come to Government who are interested in the development of mankind, and the best people to represent the needs and wishes of the people in their area, for the highest and best good of all concerned. This process will happen in every country so that a World council can be formed to uphold justice and maintain peace.

Remember the Roman Empire, the Ottoman Empire, the Prussian Empire, the Napoleonic Empire and Hitler's Germany; they were all defeated by going to war. Look also to the more recent events in, the British Empire, West Berlin, then West Germany and then Russia, they all reasonably peacefully walked to freedom, when enough people decided they were not going to support the old regime. That is what will happen this time around. Everyone has had enough, but has been unable to see the way out. That option has now been given. All of the Worlds land, sea, and all resources must be nationalised, that is, to be used for the benefit of all mankind. We must all acknowledge that nobody owns anything. That all claims to ownership are no longer accepted. That we all have the right to have all we need. This does not mean revolution, but the cycle of accumulation must end. There is no need now in this bright future to have to accumulate excess wealth to see us through our old age; we are all going to be looked after. There will be no more Empire building other than the oneness of mankind. Gone will be the days when one could control a commodity, and cause a shortage, to get the price up and build a vast fortune. This raises the question of what to do about the extremely wealthy. Nothing is done. We must remember that many people of extreme wealth are very honest business people who have made the right choices at the right time, and have used their gift for their own and their family's good, and that is fair enough. The old way of thinking is that, we need these people to generate wealth. No more is this the object, but we do need these people to generate, through their vision and enterprise, creative ways forward to help build a better future. There will be no elite people leading world of tomorrow, just ordinary people who have a special gift, of being able to guide us with wisdom and compassion, and these people will want no more reward than you or I. Service to mankind brings its own rewards.

So, everything is nationalised, and no one owns anything. Money, gone, as is all money. Massive estates, cars and yachts can stay in the custody of the present owner but must be handed over to nationalisation. Such large estates and palaces can become monuments and tourist attractions, hotels and places of historic interest. There is no reason that Kings and Queens cannot stay in their official residence for as long as they want to. Look at how many beautiful estates in Britain have fallen into disrepair through lack of money. Many seek to attract fee-paying visitors and tourists to generate funds for upkeep. This situation can be helped greatly by the free maintenance available for all. Lavish lifestyles should not be supported, but abundance of all needed things expected.

There will need to be a world assembly, to sort out any national problems that may arise. All decisions will be made, first, for the benefit of mankind, then for the highest and best good of all concerned. There will need to be an international army, similar to the UN, but its use will be tempered by justice and compassion. This army will be used for defensive purposes only. All enterprise is nationalised. All factories can carry on as they did before, but the workforce will not take money, all will work toward excellence of product. The previous owner can still continue to run the venture while it is run correctly, or he can retire if he wants to. Often people who run a business, don't have a desire for wealth, but a dream of the idea that they have, becoming a reality, to create something that will be of benefit to mankind. We need these people to teach in schools and colleges as well as start new enterprise.

Do you know! I once heard a politician, a British cabinet minister, make a comment on the news, "people don't vote for us to do their wishes, oh no, they vote for us because they know, that we know, what is best for them" What contempt for the people who voted for him, what absolute tosh. (English word meaning nonsense.)

The fly in the ointment

With the best will in the World (I can hear you thinking) there is no way that all of the people, and there are a lot of them, many thousands, at least one half of one percent of the people who live on this planet, will agree to giving up ownership of the resources that they control. For let us not forget that they do not own the resources, they just control the land by having legitimate (or other wise) claim to the area concerned. Minerals and ores from below, crops and pasture on the surface, are part of the natural cycle of life supplied freely by the Universe, Nature, God, call this source what you will.

While writing this piece, the thought comes to me about man getting in between what is freely given to us, and then charging us over the odds for it. The thought of a huge umbrella being held up to deny us water and then charge us for it, but this ridiculous situation already happens. The water company has bought the right to collect water and sell it to us. The water company does not own the water; it pipes it to us and is responsible for its quality on delivery. The only cost involved is the labour of man and the use of technology developed by man, and the mechanical equipment mined, processed and assembled by man. This same principle applies also to deposits of oil, gas, minerals of all descriptions. All credit to the individuals who put into practice the means to supply mankind with all of the products and services he requires. In the first instance, the person or people who thought of and developed the process, where probably doing it so as to be of service to mankind, to make the World a better place, but through the passage of time and generations, these institutions become a vehicle of vested interest and power brokering. The same process has happened to many organisations, and indeed even religious institutions.

So, what will be the key that unlocks the door to communal ownership of all of the Worlds resources? Let us remember we are talking about not revolution, but accelerated social evolution. The vast majority of the people I talk to about this, say it is a good idea, a utopian World. I don't suggest these people are, have nots, but ordinary people. Just imagine trying to explain the concept to Bill Gates, when he was the richest man on Earth, with an empire built, and developed by himself. How can you persuade this man to give up all rights to all of his inventions and innovations, to allow his factories and development facilities to be run on a non-profit basis, for the good of mankind? Lets start with a quotation. Here is a reported quote from Jesus. It is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of Heaven. (Or words to that effect). So if we go forward from there to the last days of Mr Gates, and I do wish him health and happiness, can he take any of his wealth or powerful position to the realms of light where we all came from, and will return to when we leave this life on Earth? We all know the answer is NO. When he gets there and is asked how he used his gift of technological insight, to benefit the World (which was his life plan) will he say "I was the richest man on Earth," or will he be able to say "I was able to give home computers to family's in every household that wanted one, the World over." Which answer do you think will do him more good in the realms of light? The reason we come here is to use our own individual gift for the betterment of life on Earth. I have underlined the word gift, for it is not our property, it is a gift freely given by God just as are all other resources.

Extremes of all kinds are dangerous, whether it is of poverty or wealth, of religion or political persuasion, power or passion. In the past when there has been a change of leadership, Royal or political, or there has been a change of technology, from steam to internal combustion, from horse to car, from gas to electric, there have been those who have lost all, some lost their lives. With the transition we are in, there will be nothing lost or taken. All will gain, one way or another.

Just imagine if you can, being in a situation where, because of your managerial or accounting ability's, you are working in an environment that you know is based on deception and greed. This situation is in place in many institutions and organisations around the World, and the people who find themselves in this position must have a terrible time justifying their part in it, to themselves. No wonder whistle blowing is a regular part of news stories. In our bright future, that has already begun to unfold, all actions will be done for the benefit of mankind. When the transition is complete, all production and development, all resources and services will be not, for the profit of a few, but for the good of mankind.

The reason for life on Earth, or indeed anywhere

I will now ask you a question, but remember, you will not be giving your answer to me, and you will do well to remember this, you are always in direct communication with your higher consciousness, your conscience, your identity, the memory of your entire existence, this is where your answer will resonate.

THE QUESTION

Imagine a world where all people live in peace and prosperity, where there is an abundance of all of the things needed to be able to live a full and healthy life. Picture this world with a local, national, continental and global council of assemblies, to look after the welfare of the people and the planet, who monitor the supply and demand of what is needed, to be able to make best use of the resources that are available to us. A time where work is optional, because technology has taken over 99% of the manual labour in farming and industrial production, and much of the human work done is teaching skills and educating the ones who need it. A life style where young and old, in fact all are welcome to all that they need, whether it is healthcare or a holiday. A place where you don't have to worry about paying the mortgage or loosing you home, because they are yours by right. An environment where one does not have to worry about sons and daughters going of to fight, kill, and maybe die in some far of battle field fighting some one else's war. A life where over population is no longer a problem because all are looked after in their old age, and responsible family planning maintains levels or maybe in time allows the level of population to reduce a little. A land where crime as we know it, is a thing of the past, where no one steals because they have all that they need, from material items to education and positive focus.

I PUT IT TO YOU

That if such a world existed and all you had to do to be part of all this, was to contribute to society, one way or another, by being of service to mankind,

WOULD YOU CONTRIBUTE?

(Reader answers)

There you go.

Now although you didn't give your answer to me personally, I know you said yes. It is inconceivable to read all through this far, and not to have a desire to see it materialize. But wait, as I have mentioned before, this world, this time, and this place are planet Earth, right now, what ever the date may be today. The only obstacle in the way of realising this utopia is our reluctance to take on the concept of this reality, which is right here right now.

But what can I do, I hear you think. It is so easy. Just talk. Talk to people about the World of plenty where many starve. Talk about financial markets that are in total meltdown due to the misuse of money, power and resources. Talk of the almost complete lack of confidence in an often corrupt, political system that works in competition rather than co-operation, and seeks to gain advantage, rather than being for the highest and best good of all concerned. Point out the problems that we are currently experiencing, but don't be seen as a negative moaner, be sure to offer all of the suggestions and common sense ideas for making a brighter future, and more of your own ideas. Direct those who have an interest, to this and other sites like it, to share ideas. Once you start to talk on the subject with a like-minded soul, inspiration will flow for ways to speed the whole event up. Once a Spiritually enlightening concept has started, the Universe will do it's utmost to help to bring to completion the desired result.

BUT MOST IMPORTANTLY.

See it, actually visualize it. Talk about it. Share it. Plan it. But more important still.

Believe it, for it is your Destiny.

Immortality

You, me and everyone else on the Planet will live until the end of time one way or another, that is to say we are all immortal. This is information that has been denied the people of the western World for too long.

Not so in the religious and Spiritual teachings of the east and northern American Indians. We have all heard of reincarnation, the term good, bad and sometimes instant karma, and American Indians referring to Spirits and the Great Spirit in the sky. These are all national religions with histories that go back hundreds and some times thousands of years. We are not talking about an isolated tribe in the rain forest or jungle who may refer to a "big silver bird"

This does not mean to say that this vehicle that we inhabit, will be with us for more than one physical experience, nor that this shell will last more than It's designated time, but that the reality of our life, the real us, has no beginning and more importantly, no end. Life, once given, is never taken away. Our physical body was not meant to last forever, but for just enough time so that we can experience life at this level of development, that is to say this World at this time, whatever time it may be. It is now scientifically proven and accepted that electricity, which is our basic life force carrier, cannot be destroyed, and cannot cease to be, so will last forever. When life exists within the physical body there is electricity registered therein. At physical death (of the body through old age, accident or disease) the electricity, which cannot be destroyed, can no longer use the human body as a vehicle for this consciousness, and moves on to its rightful place of existence in the Spiritual realms, where we will all one day return.

There are many levels of existence. There are many kinds of people. Some are selfish and greedy, while others are considerate and generous. Each person will go to the area where they belong, and there will be like-minded people there, be they wise or ignorant. The lower cannot mix with the higher. To be wise is not to be intellectually superior or wealthy, but is to be a nice person, and Spiritually evolved to whatever level. To be ignorant is to be unaware of Spiritual realities and in the dark as to its application. Some say that there are seven levels near to Earth, and when you have progressed upward through the levels, you no longer have to come back here. Who is to say? What is certain though, is that life is an ongoing journey that outlasts any physical form.

The general knowledge of just this one single fact has the power to change the World dramatically for the better. To let the people of this World know this one basic law of life, would change the way that life is lived here on Earth profoundly. When this reality is taught in schools and in churches, so that we all have this insight to life itself, then we can truly have peace on Earth.

With immortality comes responsibility.

When this Earthly interlude comes to an end and we return to our natural home, the Spiritual realms, we have the chance to see how we got on. Did we achieve our goal of Spiritual development, did we learn from our mistakes, did we do good. This is the only reason that we agree to come to life here on Earth, to grow Spiritually. For most of the people who come here, the life review is a time of great happiness, to receive confirmation for all of the good deeds and service made to our fellow man, to relive moments of happiness and realise the importance of the venture. It can also be a time of heart-felt remorse for all of the selfish greedy things we may have done. Most often, once we have made this mistake here on Earth, we feel the pain of those affected and try not to make the same mistake again, job done, lesson learned. But what of those who think they can get away with it. What of those who make a living out of deceit and crime? Oh dear oh dear. What a future they have in store. I wouldn't like to be in their shoes, I really mean that. No good or bad choice (I say choice rather than deed) is ever overlooked in a life review. In the Spiritual realm where we ALL live, there is no use of the phrase "nothing personal, it's just business" which means, "I don't dislike you but I am going to, rob, shoot, kill, hurt (or any other term for abuse) you for money or any other personal gain. How can the explanation "I am just doing this for money" relieve someone of any guilt whatsoever? Oh how the mighty will fall when the time comes to stand and be counted, not on personal wealth, strength or high office, but on the amount of service we were able to give to mankind, for the good of all. Everything will become crystal clear. All will understand where they went wrong; there is nowhere to hide. Those who made a mess will want to come back to make amends. What sort of a life do you think they will qualify for if they have shown callous greed and selfishness to others in this life, do you think they will be given the opportunity to cause even greater harm next time, because they will have to come back. Make your own mind up on that one.

Here are a couple of what if's to ponder. If you think that there is a conspiracy at play in the World today, then you may view the perpetrators as "black hearted scoundrels" who have no care whatsoever for the people who's lives they adversely affect and destroy. You may be right, but just look at this. They must have been born into wealth and position, or worked their way up through the ranks of power to be in the privileged position that they are in at present. How can ones so high, stoop so low as to steal from, and cheat the less fortunate and under privileged. An education they may have had, but how deficient it must have been as to leave out the necessary spiritual learning that could have made their life so much more advantageous for themselves and their species. An intellect they must have, but common sense and human qualities, none. These people who are bereft of conscience and compassion must be pitied, yes pitied, for they are going to an environment that will make their blood run cold. Sooner or later they will reach "pay back" time. THIS IS A FACT. If they reach it here in this life, then their World will come crashing down one way or another, either by the same means as they have used on others to put them out of business, or by the loss of a loved one, or maybe a terrible disease. If they seem to escape recourse in this life, then their position is really much worse. When they leave the material plane and return to the Spiritual realm just the same as everyone else will, they will have to stand in front of a higher power where there is only truth, and try to explain such selfish greedy behaviour, which will make them weep the tears of shame and guilt. They will feel such humiliation and remorse for being so harmful to their fellow man. They will remember their life plan, one of hope and promise for their Spiritual growth, only to come to this sad demise of self-gratification, grandification and indulgence. We must pray for these sad, Spiritually ignorant people who are causing so much mayhem in this World today. Their future is indeed desperate, and their need our prayer is great.

If you are of the opinion that the World today is not being directed by a secret agenda, then we need to look at our society in greater detail and take greater responsibility for this mess we find ourselves in.

Allowing public services to be privatised must be reassessed. When a company is expected to give its investors a yearly profit, it is obvious that to do this there must be continued cost cutting at the supply front and continued price increase for the customer. At one time electric and gas, railroad and post, among others, were called service industries because they supplied a service for the user, they are now profit making industries. Service has gone out the window; the lust for profit over rides all other motives. Most hospitals suffer the same fate allowing private funding of buildings and services. NHS has a bad record for adjusting waiting lists, expensive parking at hospitals and understaffing, with cut back and complaints being the normal state of affairs. It need not be like this.

The answer to all of these ills lies in honest competent government. The system that is in place at the moment cannot hope to tackle these problems because governmental politics has descended to political point scoring over the opposition. It matters not if an idea is a good one, "if it is their idea, we will vote against it", is the way government is, we all know this. . How can this way of doing things improve the world one jot? When, and only when, the need to do things for the good of all, is the standard that is used by government and all other institutions, will life on Earth be made so much more just and pleasant for its inhabitants. The need for bi, tri or multiple different party systems has long since seen its day. There is no need for it anymore. There must be representation for the good of all. One party, the people's party. Once a just honest government comes into being, corruption will be eradicated; services will be services and not just a means to pump money out of everyone. We will then get on with the job of feeding the World population and educating mankind as to his Divine origins.

How can this happen?

Talk to people in your street, your area. Elect the ones by secret ballot who will represent you. Pick someone who is honest, trustworthy, sensible and practical. If this is done street by street, then they can get together to elect a representative for the area, and they in turn can elect for the town, city and up to country level. This way accountable, open government can work for the good of all with no bias toward personal gain or favour.

Talking about this is the first step towards World freedom and universal peace and prosperity. What do you think?

Let me say this again.

Mankind has been taught to put his head in the yolk, allow his hands to be tied behind his back, and then work at the grindstone of life until he drops.

We must rethink the way we see the World and our place in it. How many times have you heard it said "when will we learn to live in peace, and stop making war on each other" as if it is our fault. Tell me this, when was the last time you started a war? It doesn't happen. We blame ourselves for all of this; we allow ourselves to be put in the helpless victim mode and follow blindly where we are led. And then there is "all of the poor people starving in the world, why doesn't somebody do something" HELLO! This is your wake up call, do something.

You have to remember these few points. God by whatever name created creation. That is fact. No evil soul or entity can enter creation, because all living life forms are part of a plan, the plan of creation. We all made the decision to come here, to help to make the World a better place, to evolve

Spiritually. All of life as we know it is a stage, and we all write our own script as to what we will do next, be it a good or poor choice. Don't worry about anything. Do your best, and know that all will be well, as the plan unfolds. If the whole thing goes pear shaped during our time, then we must have faith and realise it is all part of the plan. Spiritual growth usually comes through adversity, so the more we can endure, while trying our best to improve things, then the more we will have to show for our efforts. Keep love in your heart, and talk of understanding and compassion to those you meet, while asking for guidance to help change things for the better in your prayers, and then just do your best. The ones behind all of the mayhem in the World are only digging themselves into a deeper hole. One day they will have to answer for all of their negative acts, to a higher power. There have always been gangsters, criminals, and those who seek an easy way out, but we all know that "crime doesn't pay" and that is for sure. There is a beautiful future that awaits all good people, which will last, not for one hundred or a thousand years, but for eternity, because this is the true life span of the Spiritual beings that we truly are.

To talk of nationally owned industries and resources, energy and agriculture, reminds us all of bygone days of crumbling antiquated inefficient unreliable experiences of the past here in the UK. There is also the example of Communism that crumbled in Russia and elsewhere in various countries Worldwide. Both ways were set up with the best of intention, but with the passage of time, came under the control of those who did not have the interests of society at heart, and the whole exercise became a way to control power, wealth and personal position.

To make a change for the better, we must know what needs fixing. The fault lies not with the farmer, not with the wholesaler, but with the way of life here at this time. The whole system at the moment is geared to producing profit for all of those involved in the enterprise, whatever it may be. We see the opposite of profit as loss. We don't want to go into loss and lose the things and lifestyle that we have achieved this far, so we look for more and more profit, to distance ourselves from the event of loss. Profit and loss are both ends to the swing of a pendulum. Neither is in balance with harmony, which humankind craves Spiritually speaking.

The Vision

The most powerful thing in Creation is thought. Language, one aspect of this, the spoken word, or when talking from the mind, is a most powerful tool when used at its highest expression, the Power of Prayer. To seek communication with the source of Creation, for the purpose of guidance and help in need, is such joy to those on high who know of our plight, are happy that we have acknowledged a higher power, and want so much to help us to develop and work within our plan. Our plan dictates that we make the best with what we have, strive to help others, use our God given talents to good use for the benefit of all. Let us remember that any talent or gift that we have is a gift from God, for us to use wisely for the benefit of all (within the plan) or selfishly (outside or contrary to the plan). When we use the Prayers to ask for ways and means to help benefit those less fortunate than ourselves, to help to make the World a better place for all, bells ring on high, for we are working with our plan and taking the whole, life, experience, seriously and responsibly. Bingo.

I must tell you that I used to struggle with the whole idea of this, power of the mind thing. (Just to clarify one thing here, the human brain is like a computer that can be damaged and is susceptible to disease. The Mind is our consciousness that uses the brain to put our thoughts into action here in the physical realm, it is immortal and will return to the realms of light at the end of this physical life). When I heard about the power of the mind, I thought, Yes, but when I tried to roll a round pencil across a flat table, nothing happened, "what rubbish" I thought, because I didn't get it, but now I get it, I see how it works.

For content of Prayers and their successful, or not, outcome, just put yourself in the place of a loving father or mother who is trying to help their children to grow up to be kind, wise, resourceful and just people. If a child says, give me this, give me that, for things over and above it's needs, how can the parent help the child to develop the desired qualities. If on the other hand the child asks for guidance on how to achieve this or that, then the parent can answer those requests knowing that they are helping the child's progress. How proud will be the parent also, if the request will help benefit not just the child, but is intended for the good of all.

Some "give me" prayers, do seem to be answered, but much better to structure a Prayer like, guide me-them to achieve this or that, rather than give me-them what I ask for, this way you work on your own development in your plan, and you leave open so much more scope for help and inspired guidance. The Universe exists for one reason only, and that is to be a place to come to work on your plan.

That isn't all, it gets even better.

So, Prayer is very powerful, but it is second only to the most powerful aspect of thought.

Visualisation.

The most powerful tool in the Universe.

Now here is a practice piece that you can do every day to demonstrate the power of thought, magnified by visualisation. No one said it would be easy, but often things are as easy as you want to make them, every effort you put in will get a reward, either at the time or later on. Visualise that you are going to have a great day, everyone that you meet will have a big smile and a "Hello, good morning-afternoon" for you. When you go out, expect to get what you give, so give everyone that you meet a big smile and a "Hello, good morning-afternoon" and see what happens. I know that the results will be good. How could they be any other than good? If hello good morning seems a bit intimate for you if you address a perfect stranger, then a smile and a nod of acknowledgment is fine. It is important also to give a smile and a nod to people you may not like, as this can and does lead to a breakdown of barriers. If you don't like a person for a reason, or think that they may want to do you harm, then you don't have to stop to talk, but just a friendly nod will make such a difference to people. (Research shows that people who have been mugged generally have been unaware of their attacker before the assault, so stay in safe areas and be aware of those around you.)

So visualise at any opportunity you can, but it has more concentrated power if you can do it when you are in a relaxed state of mind, and in tune with the Universe, Creation, God, ideally after you have said some uplifting prayers for guidance to help the World improve. Visualise a World free of injustice and hunger, where all people have an abundance of all the things they need. Visualise a place where governments use the resources of the World (freely given by God) for the good of all the people. Visualise a World where technology has reduced the burden of manual and repetitive work from mankind down to the minimal, so that most of the people spend their time learning, teaching and giving service to those in need. Those who want to work will be able to do what they choose, build, design and develop aids through advanced technology to their hearts content.

When enough people visualise this, then it will become a reality. This is fact, do you want it to happen, yes, well start your visualisation right now. There will be those who say that some will not allow this beautiful World to happen, not so, when enough of the people can see this New World through talking about it, planning it and Visualising it, no one can resist it, for it is right and proper for it to come about.

Many people struggle with the concept of Visualisation, and they don't know why. Many life coaches encourage the visualisations to, imagine you are a millionaire, see yourself driving your Rolls Royce, smell the expensive leather upholstery, see yourself as rich and powerful, top of your game. Walk around your mansion house, see the carpets and curtains, dive in the large indoor heated swimming pool, and go sailing in your yacht.

Most people don't really want this. I think that the majority of people just want what they need to get by and they are happy just to get on with their life and don't mind lending a helping hand to those in need. They struggle to visualise these things because they don't really want them. Most people however know that it is time for the World to get a lot better than it is now. Many seek Spiritual enlightenment and pray for peace, now they have a focus and the tools.

Remember this. The plan is Creation. Our plan, fits in with the master plan. God doesn't need us to complete his plan. It has an outcome that will happen. If we can play our part in this plan by working with our plan, then we have justified our reason for incarnation, we can return to the realms of light with our head held high in pride, not bowed down in shame.

Volunteer

What can I do today, in a practical demonstrable way that can contribute to making the World a better place? One of the main themes of this site is to promote the idea of getting rid of money. If you like what you see on this web site, I have a suggestion. Invest some of your time to projects that are a service to the community, for no financial return, just to experiment and see how it feels, become a volunteer. Have a look around for something that you think is an area of need, something that feels right, that you would like to contribute some of your time to, then get in touch with them. It need not take up all of your spare time, some people will do an hour or two, and this is very much appreciated. I don't recommend that you give up your job to do it, but if you get made redundant from your employment, then why not get involved with volunteering and be a contributor to society in its time of need.

You don't need to look far to find people and organisations in need of assistance. Neighbours who may be elderly or ill may need their garden tidying and the grass cut, may need help with shopping, or jobs around the house. Don't take on more than you can cope with or jobs that exceed your experience or capability. In today's World, most volunteers have stringent security checks made on them as they often work with vulnerable people this is referred to as a CRB check Criminal Records Bureau. Many hospitals have a volunteer co-ordinator who will guide you along the path that will best suit you. The Salvation Army and many other charitable organisations, Oxfam, Red Cross, the list is long, seek all of the help that they can get from volunteers. To take on this roll, brings many advantages for the individual. To be of service to our fellow man is a prime objective of Spiritual growth. Remember, there is self, or service, when you have spare time over and above your basic requirements, what do you do. If you spend time on self this will generally bring no reward, but if some time is spent in service, then this is helping to justify the reason for existence, the reason for life its self. Make the most of your time here.

The Charter

Do you want to make it, HERE OR THERE?

I add my support and agree to the terms and the goals of this Charter.

As from now

- 1) I will work on behalf of the good of all the people, regardless of colour, class, creed, religion or nationality.
- 2) All public areas of my work will be open to full scrutiny, be they business, political or social.
- 3) Honesty, Truth and Justice are the basis of all my actions and intentions.
- 4) I will work to bring about peace for the people of this World.
- 5) To promote the oneness and unity of mankind.
- 6) To work towards returning the resources of this World back to the people, for the benefit of the people, from the control of the few.
- 7) To spread the news of our Spiritual destiny to others.

Chapter 12

The Corporate Plan

The plan for all firms and corporations from now on must be for justice, and high moral ethics and standards for the supplier of goods and resources, and service to the customer, not just the pursuit of profit. Look to the example of Bill Gates and Microsoft. What an impact the vision of a computer programmer had on civilization, although some think he was a little ruthless in his business dealings with his competitors. He was at one time the richest individual on the planet. Now that he has retired from business he is channelling his vast wealth and focus, on improving the conditions of the less fortunate. How much more could he have achieved, if when he was the head of the company, if he had made the decision to make computers and their programs available to more people by making them less expensive, working on just over cost to allow for a reasonable profit for further development. How much money do you need? Computers and their programs are still very expensive for the less well off and the poor who struggle to find food never mind education. Education is the key to advancement for the whole of our species.

For those who live in the UK one can follow the example of the Co-op Society, a system that does business by and encourages all of the wholesome, "for the good of all", ethics. Personal responsibility and conscience should lead us to their door to do our shopping, although their prices are a little higher than that of the more competitive supermarkets, they are working for the benefit of mankind, this is the reason they were formed all those years ago, and they should be supported, even at a little extra cost to ourselves, the money goes to those who need, and have earned it.

Unfulfilled

Most people here on Earth today have a longing, an unfulfilled feeling that yearns to be dealt with. The feeling could be likened to a gut feeling, a knowing that we should do something, but we don't know what. A feeling that we know that we should be happy, but even with all of the things we have, there is a void of emptiness that we cant fill, because we don't know what to do about it. We can tend to try many things as we look for this fulfilment. A lot of people and especially the ones with a lot of potential, will try out various things to make them happy, to try to fill this longing. This route often leads to material pleasures like food, drink, sex, making money, risk taking of any sort, not always legal, and any other pursuit that brings a reward of sorts to our five senses, the trouble with this, is that the reward, the satisfaction, is always short lived, transient. All of the reward items mentioned are in place and available to make our stay on Earth possible and pleasurable, to sustain us while we are here, not to bind us here. Some who desperately seek to fill this hidden void will do things to excess to try to satisfy the need, which can lead to alcoholism, drug addiction, sex addiction and perversions of one kind or another. This is surely the case with suicide bombers, often young and impressionable, who have fallen into the hands of the wicked, been fed perverted religious bigotry to meet the ends of those who teach such poison. What a sad World that we live in that doesn't teach the answer to all our needs, and there is an answer.

The void, the emptiness, is a lack of Spiritual knowledge, a need to consult with our creator on how we can best live our lives, to acknowledge the source of all love, to be loved and to pass that love on to others, herein lies the answer to all our problems, because the answer to all our ills is this. The only thing that is ever going to be of any real use to us, that will last until the end of time, that no one can ever take away from us, is the love that we have been able to amass through giving love and service to others. Many people describe themselves as being "born again" or to have "found God" which could indicate an awakening of a sorts, but true enlightenment is the knowledge that we are all here to make the World a better place, to see all people as equal and our brothers and sisters and of the same family, one race, the Human race. A lot of folk who have awakened somewhat are guided by the many life gurus, and very good many of them are to, to look within to find happiness and peace, to purify our conscience, to forgive others of wrongs done, and to forgive ourselves. All well and good to feel good about yourself, and many people have a problem with things that have happened to them in the past, but we must strive to bring this way, this forgiveness, out into the World, forgive and forget, move on from anger about wars, slavery, corruption and look to bring justice and truth to bare in all matters. Be honest in business, truthful in all you do, give value for money at your job, seek to help those less well off than our selves.

While we seek happiness for ourselves only, we can never be truly happy.

We all have a plan, that plan is to grow Spiritually one way or another, all of us have a slightly different path, and way of achieving it, but when we don't even know about it, this leads to the void, the unfulfilled feeling. When we work within the framework of our plan, we feel happy and contented.

Because we are all different, the only way to discern our own individual details for our plan, is through prayer and meditation. You don't have to spend all day doing this, but to ask for guidance to improve the plight of all of the people on this Earth when in prayer, then to listen while in meditation for possible ways to accomplish this, is a sure fire way to learn how it all works.

A prayer like "please God make the World a better place" is nice but how is that going to help. God made the World a place of beauty and with an abundance of food already in place for us. The problem lies not with Gods part in all of this, the problem lies with mankind. The ones who do not stick to their plan and seek self over service cause the problem. To try to help to change this aspect, ask for ways to help to make the world a better place, then ideas will come to you, like advocate the oneness of mankind, feed the World population, seek areas of service to mankind in many areas, these are things that will make a difference. Try to remember that God gave freely all of the Worlds resources to mankind to use to sustain him-her while here. These resources have come into the control of a few who wish to profit at everyone else's expense.

Question and Answer

Q) What do you think will be the future for the World, will we survive as a species or destroy ourselves.

A) It is not so much a case of what I think, but rather a case of the unfolding of the plan of creation. I see before the World, a glorious future time of peace and prosperity for everyone on the planet, a time where crime is a thing of the past, a place where the burden of labour has been mainly taken over by machinery and advanced technology. Justice, truth, and honesty will be the hallmark of all governments, services, utility and goods providers. A place where all of the world's resources (freely given by God) are returned to, and used for the benefit and well being of the population of the World. There will be no needless suffering. This is mans destiny, it is the plan.

Q) This is a big change from what we see in the World at this time, how can it be possible in the near future.

A) Education, education, education. The World right now, at this very minute, has the capacity, the infrastructure and the means to make this a reality before bedtime. The only thing lacking is the realisation that it can happen, that there is another way other than this mess that we find ourselves in, by letting people know of the alternatives, they can work towards them. Let me just run this one by you.

God has freely given us all of the resources that we need to survive and live comfortably here on Earth at this time. If all people worked, not for money, but to be of service to mankind, then we could responsibly use the oil, coal, minerals, land for crops and anything else we need, to provide all of the people with what they need.

Q) What about all the people who would just want to sit around and wait for their share, the ones who would not want to work for service to mankind.

A) This comes down to education and environment. Many people are reluctant to support and feel undervalued by the present system that uses them as a means to make money. They can see the problems the system is causing, and don't like the impact it has on society, where the rich get richer and the poor get poorer. In an environment that is fair and just, many of those reluctant people would support a way of life that has all the benefits of a heaven on Earth. There will still be those developing souls who would need to be nurtured as to their needs for Spiritual growth and progression. This is not a problem, as most work will be done by machines and robots. The manual work that needs human input will be done by those who want to do it. It will be a time of full employment for those who want to work, but there will be much shorter working hours, very much part time. Most of the people will spend their time learning new skills and being of service to those in need. Much beautifying of the environment will be needed, gardening and repairing run down properties, but it will all be done in an atmosphere of love and fellowship.

Q) You say that the Worlds resources will be returned to the people of the World, how will this come about? Wars have been fought in the past and are still raging for ownership and control of resources.

A) The answer to this lies in the development of the human race as a species. In the dark distant past it was only the rich and powerful that had access to education. This education is now available to the masses. Hand in hand with material education, goes Spiritual education, the right to know of our noble birth from God, as we are part of this most glorious essence, and as such we are immortal beings. Our relatively short life here (compared to eternity) will be a reflection of the life we will lead when we return to the realms of light. If we live a selfish greedy existence (working outside or contrary to our plan), then that is the area we will live when we return, with other selfish greedy beings. If however we manage to work within our plan (to try and help to improve life for all on Earth) then we will reside in comparative luxury with nice people, happy and fulfilled.

When the physical body can no longer be a vehicle for our consciousness through old age, disease or accident, it will go back through the veil of consciousness to our natural home the Spiritual realms.

To accept this reality is to release ones self from oppression, to be free to do what is right and honourable and to fear no oppressor, for if we die in the path of service, we are hero's and as such will live in the light and love, the person who causes a death by oppression will die a thousand deaths of shame and humiliation on their return to the realms of light and will regret their decline into the lower darker areas of the Spiritual realms where they will reside with other lower darker entities.

This catalyst for change, this knowledge will not come from the top down, as in most religious or political ideologies, but from the bottom up, from the people who will be able to chose honest, reliable, truthful people to represent them in local, regional and national assemblies, whose task will be to see that all are free to live in peace and abundance. In so doing these assemblies will be able to return to the people through nationalisation, the resources of the World, to, and for the benefit, of the people of the World.

Let me put it like this. In days gone by the King or local Baron or warlord would come by and say, "you are coming with me, I have a war to fight" and we would have had to go. These days that does not happen, not because it is any worse to fight wars these days, but the reason is that ordinary folk wont go, they can see it is not right and they refuse, this then becomes their right to refuse. When the people realise what the problem is with the World, when they become involved in “for the people” organisation, when they elect a sympathetic government that will carry out these policies, then it will happen. Everything to put it right is in place right now, though the people didn’t know the answer to the ills of the World, but they do now.

Q) You say that we all have roughly the same plan, one to improve life here on Earth for the good of all, tell me about the ones who turn out to be the most cruel despicable people, the murderers, the abusers, Hitler, Jack the Ripper what about their plan. Did they turn evil, or were they evil to start with, did Hitler volunteer to come and start a war to help souls evolve that way, and have a different plan to everyone else.

A) This is one that many people struggle with, even when we have a basic understanding of Spiritual matters. There is no war built into the plan, no need for one and no negative event desired in the plan. The plan, creation it’s self, exists to allow souls to develop and grow in kindness and love, mans free will allows us to fight each other, but that is our choice, but it is not part of the plan. The fact remains, we all have a plan to do good deeds. No one can enter the plan of creation without being part of the plan, with a strong will to succeed and grow Spiritually. Spiritual knowledge is the answer to all the ills of the World, and here is some of the answer to this one, all cases are different. There is only love, that might seem hard to swallow when we consider all of the killing and bloodshed going on in the World right now even. Anything that manifests its self as anything else, or negative, is frustrated love, or one denied access, to love. Many will have had an upbringing of cruelty and neglect, possibly desertion and abuse at the hands of those who should have looked after them better. Some will build a barrier of malice to protect them selves from further harm and heartbreak. Many gullible youths will bow to peer pressure by joining gangs to protect them selves from other gangs, and embark on a life of crime because they are told, and believe that this is their lot, take what you want, make people fear you, get into drugs, do despicable things to get money for their drug habit. Look to the example of Hitler, a man with such potential to motivate people, who brought Germany out of the ruinous bankruptcy of the aftermath of the First World war, and then straight in to the second World war. History tells us that he had a bad experience as a boy at the hands of a Jewish person or family, and that his experiences led to an insane hatred of the whole race, Had he had a normal loving childhood, then what a different place the World might be right now. In Hitler’s mind, he probably thought he was doing the world a favour, just like some people for one reason or another, become racist, maybe through abuse or historical events like in certain areas of the world where there has been friction between different races for millennia. This is not part of the plan and any negative act that we do will reflect on the eventual outcome of our life. If we can learn from our mistakes, or negative actions, so that we never want to hurt anybody again, then the freewill that has let us experience negative feelings has taught us a lesson in life. Mistakes are allowed, but they are not part of the plan. We all make mistakes now and again, try to learn from them and not repeat them.

All of those who become corrupt and do not mend their ways here on Earth will end up back in the realms of light, at a life review where all is known. If they have become so embittered from their life here, or so selfish and greedy that they cannot change their ways, then down they go to the lower darker areas where there is little or no light and beauty, with like-minded darker entities. Every help and consideration is given in helping to counsel these people, to help them to improve things for themselves, no one is ever denied help when it is a genuine request. These few are the exception as most abusers, thieves, embezzlers, feel great shame and remorse for their selfish cruel acts. They know they have let themselves and everybody else down badly, and they desperately want to make amends. This is the point that a new plan starts to be shaped for further progress for each individual soul. So in answer to the question, can bad or negative souls come here, the answer is definitely not, but with free will and a weak mind, we can become disillusioned, wilful, corrupt, and only have interest in our self. There may have been some excuse in the past because on a lack of Spiritual knowledge (although we all have a conscience) but now there is no excuse, for we are all aware of are own personal responsibility, Tell everyone of the way it is, you owe it to them whoever they may be, ask "How can you condone and justify, this or that action"
